

User stories:

On our meeting with our client, we showed our clients what we did during the week, and here is what they want from us for the following week:

1. As a customer, I want to be able to have our first full prototype, cable of making orders from the menu, so that I will be able to make recommendation.
2. As a customer, I want to be able to have the past order ingredients as a priority in addition to ingredient name, so that the priority is taken into an account when giving the recommendation.
